

Information Sheet

Smoke Alarms

Smoke alarms are small devices that produce a very loud sound when they detect smoke or heat from a fire.

They are designed to warn of fires in their early stages to allow everyone in the house to get out safely.

Smoke alarms are usually fitted onto a ceiling and powered by a battery.

You may be able to get a free smoke alarm. Contact your local Fire Service for advice.

You may also be able to arrange a free home visit from your local Fire Service, who will provide advice on fire safety.

For more information and contact information, visit the UK Fire Service website:

<https://www.fireservice.co.uk/safety/>